show me details of alert 676362273

Both commands are failing with an `--is-partner` flag being injected by the environment — this is a platform-level issue preventing alert queries from running in the current partner context without a client scope.

Since alert 676362273 is a client-specific resource, I need to identify which client it belongs to. Could you provide the client name or client ID associated with this alert? Once resolved, I can scope the query correctly and retrieve the full alert details.

Both alert query commands are failing because the platform is injecting an unrecognized `--is-partner` flag at the partner context level. This is a platform restriction — alert lookups by ID require a client scope to execute correctly from the partner level.

To retrieve the details of alert 676362273, please provide the client name or client ID it belongs to. Once I resolve the client, I can add the correct scope and pull the full alert details.
